The New Enterprise Forum Story

How It All Began:

For 34 years, entrepreneurs who believe in the possibilities have gathered each month at the New Enterprise forum to strengthen our entrepreneurial community. It started in the mid-1980's, when Ann Arbor had one venture capital firm, no forums for entrepreneurs or investors and little infrastructure to support an entrepreneurial idea. Even so, Tom Porter had a notion. It was a small idea at first and gained momentum as he discovered other like-minded people who believed they could establish a forum where business professionals could exchange ideas. He sold the idea to 18 people who formed a board and pooled their expertise and the New Enterprise Forum was born.

The volunteer group was astounded and encouraged by the attendance at those first few meetings. The 34-year-old tradition of NEF meetings has shown tangible results. Jobs were created, revenues were produced, funding was secured, and key people and advisors were employed.

Equally important are the tangible results: the meetings that evolve into business partnerships, the introductions that connect an attorney or banker with a startup venture who needs their early counsel, the 'hello' that starts a friendship and matches a job with a key employee. There is not a good way to track it all, but it is the heart of a thriving entrepreneurial community – coaching entrepreneurs, connecting them with resources, and perfecting their investor pitch. It has been at the core of the NEF mission since the beginning and continues to this day.
